

You have asked us for contact information for individuals who may be able to help with bookkeeping and also preparing your income tax returns. As you may know, choosing a tax preparer is an important decision as you have final responsibility for the returns they may prepare.

Every taxpayer's situation is unique and every tax preparer has unique skills and abilities. We suggest that before making a final decision to hire any tax preparer, you take the time to speak with them about your specific situation and evaluate for yourself whether they can adequately deliver the services you need.

Below is contact information for tax preparers who may be able to help you and who can also provide bookkeeping services.
